TUSCALOOSA CLERK FOR COUNTY BOARD DEPARTS FROM CITY

James Foster Leaves Note To Wife That He Will Not Return

AUDITOR WORKING ON HIS ACCOUNTS

Shortage Indicated By First Investigation Of The Books

(Associated Press)

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Sept. 22.—Leaving a note to his wife, in which he declared that he had no intention of ever returning to Tuscaloosa, James L. Foster, clerk of the county board of revenue, boarded the nine o'clock train out of Tuscaloosa yesterday morning, after purchasing a ticket for Birmingham.

A shortage in his account is indicated, authorities said.

An auditor representing the state department, has been at work on Mr. Foster's books for the past two months. Part of that time, however, he has been absent from Tuscaloosa, so that he spent just about a month in this city.

The work is not completed, and no statement as to the condition of the accounts could be obtained from the auditor. It is said, however, that accounts from 1919 to date would indicate a shortage of about $25,000.

This is not definite, in the absence of some of the books of road tax receipts or accounts, and further search will be necessary before the accounts can be definitely checked.

Mr. Foster, it is said, appeared at the courthouse early yesterday morning as usual, leaving a note to be delivered to his wife at 11 o'clock. He boarded the train after leaving his pocket to Birmingham. He was without baggage or a suitcase of any kind.

SUB-COMMITTEE LIKES KILBY PRISON

(Associated Press)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 22.—Congressman Milton W. Shreve, of Pennsylvania, Congressman Anthony J. Griffin of New York, and Congressman W. B. Oliver of Alabama, members of a sub-committee of the appropriations committee of the United States house of representatives, declared here last night that Kilby prison is the "most wonderful penal institution they have yet seen," following an inspection of the prison yesterday.

The committee is making a study of prisons and prison administration in the United States and has visited the federal prisons at Leavenworth, Kan.; San Quentin, in California; McNeil island in the state of Washington, and several city prisons in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Equipment, administration and management of the Alabama institution drew the commendation of the visitors.

Seamen Strike On Ships at Mobile

(Associated Press)

MOBILE, Ala., Sept. 22.—Organized seamen and firemen, members of the Marine Transport workers, and industrial workers of the world, are on a strike here for an increase of $15 per month in wages and better living conditions on ships.

Most of the ships affected are those flying foreign flags. It was said on the river front this morning that the seamen are recruiting new crews without any trouble.

Heavy Fire Loss Results When 820 Bales Cotton Burn

(Associated Press)

LINCOLN, Ala., Sept. 22.—Loss estimated at $100,000 resulted here today when fire of undetermined origin destroyed 820 bales of cotton in a warehouse, razed a saw and planing mill, a dry kiln, burned two freight cars loaded with lumber and a grist mill.

The crew of a passing train saved two other cars of lumber by pulling them out of range of the blaze.

BLACK SPEAKS AT PYTHIAN MEETING

Former Chancellor In Address Stresses 3 Pythian Principles

Those who failed to attend Hermon Lodge, No. 16, Knights of Pythias, last night missed a treat. Hugo Black, of Birmingham, Past Grand Chancellor of the order, was present and delivered an inspiring address. Among other of the many good things Mr. Black called special attention to three great principles of the order, which were adopted when Pythianism was founded. These principles, it was declared, not only make for the upbuilding of Pythian Knights, but for the creation of better citizenship, and are, patriotism, obedience to law, and religious toleration.

The meeting last night was of special interest to all Pythian Knights, and was a very enthusiastic one. The officers of the lodge confidently expect a larger attendance and more interest in this grand old order.

Examinations of Dogs Show Positive

Examination of the head of a dog, belonging to Seneca Burr, showed the animal suffered from rabies, it was announced today at the laboratory.

Dr. Irwin from Moulton, reported to the laboratory that a dog had found its way into Lawrence county from Winston and had bitten one child and probably several dogs. Treatment for the child, whose name was not given was ordered.

Quiet Prevails After Lynching

(Associated Press)
NEW ALBANY, Miss., Sept. 22.—Quiet prevails throughout Union county with normal conditions restored, in the wake of the lynching near Rocky Ford of J. P. Ivy, negro timber cutter. No further disorder is anticipated.

A coroner's jury which investigated the lynching of Ivy, who was burned at a stake, in punishment for an attack on a young white woman, returned a verdict that he came to his death at the hands of a mob, the members of which were not known. The charred remains were buried today.

Judge Thomas B. Pegram, of the third judicial district, announced at Oxford, where he is holding a court term, that the lynching would be made the subject of a rigid grand jury investigation, either at the regular term of Union county circuit court or a special session. He had not decided whether a special court term would be called. The next regular session convenes in January.

The young woman attacked still was in a critical condition tonight. Ivy, arrested as a suspect, was identified by the girl as her assailant and later, it is alleged confessed. He was seized by members of a mob said to number upwards of 1,000 persons while the sheriff was endeavoring to spirit him to another county for safe keeping, tied to a stake, covered with gasoline, placed over a brush pile and set afire.

ANOTHER SUSPECT HELD AS ANDERSON IN FLORIDA RESORT

Former Confederate of Gerald Chapman May Be In Custody

MAN DENIES THAT HE IS BANDIT

Insists He Served Once As Mayor of West Virginia City

(Associated Press)

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., Sept. 22.—A man believed by police to be George (Dutch) Anderson, former confederate of Gerald Chapman, but who gave his name as B. L. Bullman, former mayor of Williamstown, West Va., and once the head of an electric company at Marietta, Ohio, was arrested here today.

Police said they received a tip that the man believed to be Anderson was on his way to this city and his arrest resulted. He is being held in jail pending complete identification.

The man, who was well dressed, had on his person a number of Masonic cards and declared he was a Mason, but upon being questioned by City Judge Walker and other local Masons, gave evasive and unsatisfactory answers and could not establish connection with the Masonic lodge.

Finger prints of the prisoner were said to tally with those of Anderson. Telegrams were sent to federal officials in Atlanta and it was expected the case would be cleared up today.

WILLIAMSTOWN, West Va., Sept. 22.—My husband left here about two weeks ago for Florida, where he was going to investigate the possibilities of the real estate business," Mrs. B. L. Bullman, wife of the former mayor of Williamstown, and Marietta, O., banker, and telephone company head, said today when informed that a man, giving the name of B. L. Bullman, had been arrested in Florida.

Falkville Man Talks Of Crops

E. B. Puryear, resident of the Falkville section in the cities today on business, declared that crop conditions have not been so favorable in the Falkville section. He stated that the Falkville section has been hit heavily with the damage caused by the extreme drought which lasted most of the summer and that he thought crop yields might be curtailed somewhat.

Mr. Puryear said, however, that he thought most of the farmers are well pleased with the 1925 cotton crop and that the damage done to other crops had been made up in the increased cotton yield.

Court To Decide Parentage of Child

(Associated Press)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 22.—After travelling nearly 500 miles in belief their four year old child would be restored to them at the end of their journey, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Horton were confronted with a demand to prove the parentage of little Martha "May," alleged to have been placed in custody of Mrs. Tom Hall, of Neuhardt, Ark.

The case will be tried at the Marion, Ark., courthouse. Mr. and Mrs. Horton, tired and dusky from their trip, arrived in Neuhardt Monday, efforts to find they must make further efforts if they are to recover the child alleged to have been kidnapped.

REGISTERED MAIL TAKEN FROM ROOM AT TOLEDO DEPOT

Five Minutes Used By Thief To Make His Escape With Loot

CREWS ENGAGED IN LOADING MAIL

Postal Officials Not Able To Estimate Value Of Loot

(Associated Press)

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 22.—United States registered and first class mail of an undetermined value was stolen between 6:15 and 6:20 a. m., today from the registered mail room at the union station.

The thief entered through a window from which he had removed a heavy screen and escaped without being seen.

The loot included a pouch of registered mail, a hand package which mail clerks say looked like a jeweler's box, a registered letter and a hand package containing about 25 first class letters.

Postal employees said that it was customary for the mail room to be unoccupied for slightly more than five minutes each morning about the time of the robbery, because of the entire force being outside to receive or load mail.

Postoffice officials said the stolen mail was all from New York for delivery in Toledo. No estimate of the amount of the loot has yet been made.

HOSPITAL WORKERS TO BE NAMED SOON

Bowles Expects To Act Within Week, He Says Tuesday

Members of the general executive committee to handle the campaign for $20,000, which the Shriners plan to raise for the Benevolent hospital, probably will be named this week.

Announcement to this effect was made Tuesday by Thomas A. Bowles, general chairman, who was instructed at a recent meeting of Shriners, to appoint the committee. Mr. Bowles explained that the bridge celebration and other questions had delayed the campaign, but, in view of its importance, he expected that the drive for relief of the hospital soon will be underway.

Shrine leaders are confident that the public will respond liberally to the hospital cause. Additional room is needed acutely at the institution now. The Shrine campaign will enable the hospital to bond itself for an additional $15,000 and erect a $35,000 addition to the present building, virtually doubling the present capacity.

COLLECTIONS NEAR $15,000 TOTAL NOW IN ALBANY'S COURT

Figures Being Gotten Together For The Annual Reports

TOTAL TODAY IS $14,681.25

First Year Carswell's Administration Nets Large Increase

(Associated Press)

Figures being assembled at the Albany city hall, preparatory to the making up of annual reports early in October, today revealed that the first year of the administration of Mayor F. L. Carswell probably will net the city of Albany considerable in excess of $15,000 in collections of police court fines.

Cash collections in the court, inclusive of collections through September 21, total $14,681.25. It was expected that by October 7, when the second year of the Carswell administration begins, the total will be well beyond $15,000.

Collections during the year were as follows: October, $735.90; November, $580.40; December, $890.75; January, $998.10; February, $579.20; March, $1,528.25; April, $1,234.10; May, $1,229.70; June, $1,488.05; July, $2,049.50; August, $1,788.50; September, through September 21, $1,517.70.

It will be seen that July was the heaviest month of the year, unless September finally exceeds that record.

The totals for the fiscal year just closing compare with a total of $9,342.32 in collections for the year just preceding the beginning of the administration of Dr. Carswell, collections for that year being divided as follows: October, $1,061.50; November, $473.90; December, $809.35; January, $663.95; February, $361.65; March, $1,055.25; April, $905.07; May, $586.36; June, $998.50; July, $781.60; August, $983.10; September, $662.20.

Miss Pauline Wise Passes To Beyond

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock for Miss Pauline Wise, aged 18 years, who passed away after an illness of short duration at 5:45 o'clock this morning. Services will be held at the residence 1009 Canal street, Decatur, the Reverend's C. C. Davison and E. Floyd Olive, officiating in the Baptist ceremony.

The young girl is survived by her mother, Mrs. W. C. Wise; four sisters, Mrs. C. R. Farrar of Little Rock Ark.; Mrs. R. M. Sibley, Decatur; and Misses Mildred and Armenta Wise, Decatur. Three brothers, W. A., W. H. and O. D. Wise of Decatur survive the deceased.

The following will act as pallbearers: W. T. Giles, Edward Griffin, Grady Keyes, Frank Reed, A. T. Hanson and W. W. Rainey. Interment will be made at the city cemetery. Priest in charge.

Negro Youths Get Thrashing In Police Court

Two negro boys, arraigned in the Albany police court this morning on charges of fighting will remember the session for many moons.

With the agreement of the court, the boys were let off with whippings by their mothers. The chastisement occurred in the city jail and observers declared the mothers did not fail to use the strap with zeal.

TRASH MUST NOT BE PUT IN STREET

Attention Of People Is Called To Statute By Officials

Repeated violations of a city of Albany ordinance, covering the question of disposal of leaves, trash, etc., today called forth a warning from city officials.

Ed Adcock, street superintendent, stated that he was finding many residents who collect leaves and other trash from their yards and place it in the curb lines on the paved streets.

"That," said Mr. Adcock, "tends to clog up the storm sewers and makes a bad situation all around. I am sure that many of these people are committing violations of the ordinance without thinking of the more serious consequences."

The ordinance covering the question follows:

Section 372. Any person throwing or sweeping paper, trash, or filth of any kind on the streets, or sidewalks of the City of Albany, or allowing it to be done, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, on conviction, shall be fined not less than one or more than ten dollars. It shall be the duty of each store or dwelling house to put trash, sweepings, etc, into metal cans with cover, the same to be fly proof in order that the city carts may take same away.

DISTANCE LAW IS REVISED BY CLUB

Action Is Taken In Meeting Called On Monday Night

Regulation of non-resident membership status was revised Monday night in a meeting at the Valley Country club. The provision granted now allows those in the radius of more than 15 miles of these cities to be eligible for non-resident membership. This change will allow golf enthusiasts in Athens, Courtland, Cullman and other neighboring towns to become members of the local club.

President Chas. Rountree presided at the meeting. The business session was opened at 7:30 o'clock and the resolution providing for the change in non-resident regulation submitted. The resolution had previously been passed upon by the board of governors. The action was declared passed without dissenting vote.

The action was taken after many golfers in other cities which do not now have courses of their own had asked to become members of the local club. The restriction formerly provided that no one residing within a 35 mile radius could be eligible for a non-resident membership and would be forced to pay the full membership fee and dues.

POLICE, ATTRACTED BY SCREAMS, FIND REMAINS OF VICTIM

Fireman Arrested, Says Woman Often Paid Visits To Him

ADMITS HITTING HER IN THE HEAD

Symuk Asserts Belief Effort Was Made To Give Him Poison

(Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Mrs. Sophia Poleski, whose body was found by police today in the furnace of an east side lumber yard kiln, was placed in the furnace while still alive and was burned to death, medical examiner Schwartz announced after an autopsy.

Two fractures were found in the woman's skull.

George Symuk, fireman in charge of the furnace, was arrested and charged with Mrs. Poleski's death, after a policeman had been attracted to the lumber yard by the woman's screams.

Symuk told the police that the woman often visited him at the yard and that she once threatened to poison him.

When she brought him two bottles of wine early this morning, he suspected that she had placed poison in the wine. He said he took her over the head with a bottle and then carried her body from an office in the main building to the furnace room.

Police said Mrs. Poleski was gagged before being placed in the furnace.

Symuk told his captors that when he ran from the lumber yard he intended to commit suicide by jumping into the East river, nearby. He was held on a charge of homicide.

BLOCK OF BORDER RESORT IS BURNED

Million Dollar Damage Done By Flames In Tijuana

(Associated Press)

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Sept. 22.—Flames, starting in the Vernon club in Tijuana early today swept through an entire block that included some of the best known resorts in the border city, causing a loss that business men estimated would total nearly $1,000,000.

Reports from the border town were that the fire broke out in the kitchen of the Vernon club, shortly after four a. m. and quickly spread to the adjoining structure.

Shortly after the local fire department arrived, the water supply gave out and the inhabitants had nothing to do but to stand helplessly by and watch the fire spread.

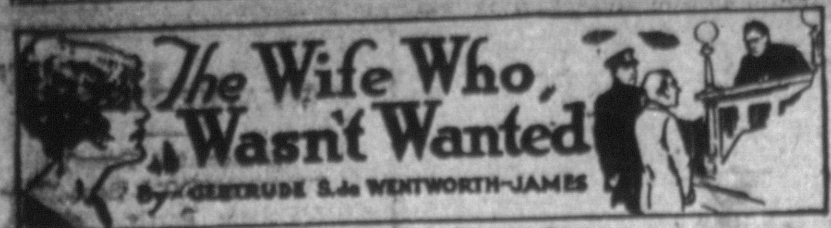

In thirty minutes practically all the structures in the block that included the San Francisco Cantina, the Tivoli bar, the San Diego bar, Gonzales bar, Alhambra cafe, the Turf bar, the Lost Cabin, a curio store and offices, as well as a number of other buildings, were ablaze.

Birmingham Still Gripped By Heat

(Associated Press)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 22.—"Ninety-nine and rising," that was Birmingham's weather today at noon. Rain in sight for tonight and tomorrow was the only qualification. So many records have been broken this summer that there is no news in Birmingham's weather any more. Day after day something unheard of in weather dishes has been served. Drought conditions are becoming daily more acute.

The Wife Who Wasn't Wanted with Irene Rich, is a pictorialization of this story by Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS

John Mannering, District Attorney, and his son, Bob, have just left home in the morning, when Eileen, the wife and mother, receives a bouquet of flowers, with a card bearing the greetings of "Jerry." Soon after, Jerome Wallace, a lawyer who was her girlhood suitor, telephones but she refuses to speak with him. Eileen is incensed by Wallace's attentions for she is devoted to her husband and their son. Today, by the way, is Bob's twenty-first birthday.

Yet, it must be confessed, the repulse given to his persistent overtures had not appeared to greatly disturb Jerome Wallace. When he received her curt message from Mary's lips, he had displayed no intense disappointment. Not that he could have misconstrued the meaning conveyed. Wallace was too much a man of the world, too well versed in the subtleties of social life to make any such mistake. And moreover he was not given to carrying his feelings on his coat sleeve.

A rather mysterious man was Wallace, anyway. A lawyer by profession, he had lived in the community all his life. His circle of acquaintances was wide, but his friends were few. He had a limited practice and had accumulated considerable money from it. Some said, far more than any reasonable fees could account for. That was the point. There were many rumors about Wallace. Vague hints, indefinite and intangible. There were hints of sharp practice towards his own clients, of investments suggested by him which turned out singularly unfortunate, of rich estates which shrunk materially under his management. On the other hand, the accounts of all his stewardships were models of accuracy, and no man had ever presumed to suggest his indictment for embezzlement. Moreover, in certain legal controversies with dissatisfied clients, he had come off with flying colors. True, these misguided individuals had appeared much bewildered and amazed, and had steadfastly thereafter maintained that the law, as well as Mr. Wallace, were snares and delusions, pitfalls set to entrap honest men.

For the most part, the world accepted Wallace at his own value. A dark, handsome man whom women were drawn to and men feared, he frequented the best houses. But, it was not alone in society that Wallace was interested. Having evinced an interest in politics, he had finally been chosen as the candidate of the opposition party for District Attorney. Not that there seemed much ground for the belief that he could prevail against such a man as John Mannering in a race based upon ability and achievement.

But Wallace, too, had a reputation. A reputation of usually getting what he went after. Some added, regardless of the methods he had to use to gain his point. There it goes again, hints and innuendos. But, nevertheless, Wallace was the formally endorsed candidate of a great party for the office of District Attorney and a man of substance and position, who perhaps could regard the world from a very comfortable point of view.

At any rate, when he had been told over the telephone that Eileen was not at home, he calmly hung up the receiver and sat back in his chair. Evincing no disappointment, he smiled—a mocking smile—and having given several amused thumps upon the table, he grew thoughtful.

Wallace was given to thinking. He was forever pausing to delve retrospectively into the recesses of his mind. A well ordered mind his, apparently card indexed and with a mass of valuable data available for use upon a moment's notice. Wallace never forgot. A fine trait, most mortals would say. But concerning that there were hints. Former clients of his, hot headed individuals doubtless, had been known to refer to confidential communications and blackmail in the same breath with his name. Careless tongued souls these, plainly, and fortunate not to have found themselves indicted for slander. For what reasonable man could think of blackmail in connection with Jerome Wallace as he sat in his beautifully furnished apartment in the easy comfort of his lounging robe? Let us be under no misapprehensions but judge him as he appears, a man of discriminating taste who has reached a time in life where he may enjoy the fruits of his craft. Yet, hardly craft, which savors too much of graft, but rather regard him as a man of culture and refinement enjoying the rewards of his professional skill.

After a time, Wallace came out of his reverie and smiling once more to himself, opened a drawer in the table and drew forth a photograph of a woman. Ah, there have been strange rumors afloat regarding his relations with women. But rumors, merely rumors, and Wallace is invited to the best houses.

And this is a picture of a girl. A young girl on the threshold of womanhood, simply dressed, in white and standing at a garden gate. There is a school girl freshness about the slender figure, the indelible stamp of innocence in those eyes and something strangely familiar in that countenance.

Stay, allowing for the passage of years it is no other than the face of Eileen which looks forth from that picture.

And, what is more, to give strength to that conclusion, plainly written upon the white mat which backed the picture are the words, "To Jerry, dearest—success—and all my love. EILEEN."

And Jerry is used as diminutive for Jerome. Here indeed was food for thought. What held Wallace's thoughts as he sat there staring at that old picture? Were there gentle memories of a boy and girl in infatuation, a fitting fancy of budding hearts, its ties of gossamer so fragile that they fell away under the first stress? Or was it of an old passion, balked, but smouldering on through the years, unquenched, unquenchable? Or again was it of a rivalry, a stern, masculine rivalry begun for the hand of a maid and festering through the years ready to burst forth at every new contact?

Fate had made John Mannering and Jerome Wallace rivals for the hand of Eileen in their youth as it had now pitted them against each other in the race for District Attorney. But now as Wallace sat there with the picture in his hands, he might have been thinking of all of these things, or any of them, and no man the wiser, so inscrutable was his countenance.

There came a soft movement at his side and a Japanese boy appeared, bearing coffee. Wallace, recalled from his thoughts, glanced up and having returned the picture to its place, was closing the drawer when the bell of the telephone sounded.

He indicated the telephone to the boy with a nod of his head.

"Mr. Jennings wishes to speak to you, sir," said the boy softly, a moment later.

Jennings, "Slick" Jennings, a notorious ward heeler in the Gas House District. There was something strangely incongruous in the fact that he should have business with Jerome Wallace. The two men appeared to be antipodes of each other in tastes and attributes. Yet, as was long ago said, politics makes strange bed fellows. And to carry the simile further Wallace seemingly not only had taken Slick Jennings to bed with him in his race for District Attorney, but had clutched him to his very bosom by placing him in charge of one of his headquarters. It was pure politics, or better, purely politics which had led to this move on Wallace's part.

EAT HOG MEAT DRINK BLACK COFFEE, SMOKE, SAYS VETERAN

"Uncle Jack" Sandlin, aged 87 years, a native of the Danville neighborhood who left this state 55 years ago to reside at Ola, Arkansas, attributes his long life and happiness to a lack of worry, drinking strong black coffee and smoking homemade tobacco. Uncle Jack said in an interview yesterday, "I never fret over anything I have taken the world fair and easy, I eat plenty of hog meat and gravy, drink black coffee and smoke homemade tobacco. If I had my life to live over again, I don't think I would change it."

"Uncle Jack," J. J. Sandlin is visiting relatives here for the remainder of the week and declared he had enjoyed going over the grounds he tramped years ago, hunting fox and deer. He has a great many relatives in this section of the country and stated that "every Sandlin in this section is some kin to me."

Mr. Sandlin is alone in the world now, his wife having passed away three years ago at the age of 82. His children have married and moved away and he spends his time staying at his Arkansas home where he has a large land tract and in traveling over the south and southwest alone wherever he may wish to go. Mrs. A. A. McCollum, Hartselle, his sister, is spending the week here with Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Kirby. Mr. Sandlin is an uncle of Mrs. Kirby.

The aged man, a veteran of the Civil War and a member of Forrest Cavalry, said that at the age of seven years he aided in clearing the ground at Big Spring, near Danville. He remembered the first wagon that his father bought, a South Carolina product, the bed of the wagon is still good and is hanging at the old home place at Danville. Mr. Sandlin said his father paid $80.00 for the wagon, the sum being paid in half and silver dollars. He described it as being a "hatful of silver money."

MANY SICK PEOPLE HAVE PELLAGRA AND DON'T KNOW IT

Dr. W. C. Rountree, Texarkana, Texas.

Dear Doctor:—I had Pellagra six years, I was very nervous, had stomach trouble, lost weight, hands blistered and peeled off, very despondent and thought that I would lose my mind. I took over 700 hypodermics and got worse all the time. I heard of Dr. Rountree's Pellagra Treatment, took three treatments and am now sound and well. The last treatment was taken 18 months ago and I have had no recurring symptoms.

Dr. W. C. Rountree, Texarkana, Texas.

Dear Doctor: I had been having stomach trouble and losing weight; my skin had turned brown. I had a general weakness all over my body, felt tired all the time and could not sleep well at night. I had changed my diet often, trying to get rest, as I was very nervous. One of my neighbors had Pellagra and told me possibly I had it. I did not believe at that time that I did have Pellagra, but I tried one of your treatments and got immediate relief. My nervousness was at once relieved; my stomach cured and I am now a well man. I only took two ten dollar treatments which cured me. W. W. Fletcher, Carrollton, Texas.

Baby's Teething Now Made Easier By Doctor Moffett

Teething has always put a strain on babies' health, especially during hot summer months. Even the purest foods may be upsetting and mother must constantly watch out for Colic, Sourness, Gas, Acidity, Cholera Morbus, Diarrhoea and such baby ills.

"Rearing little ones through the hot summer months is certainly trying, and I don't know what I would have done without Dr. Moffett's Teethina," writes Mrs. Mary Dotson, of Dahlonga, Ga. "My baby was 14 months old and had a terrible time cutting her eight teeth. But as soon as I started giving her Teethina powders she got all right; has cut those bad teeth and is as well and playful as ever. Also, I want to tell you how helpful the advice was in your Baby Booklet."

Teethina is a baby doctor's prescription. It costs only 30c at any leading drug store, though millions of mothers know its priceless value in keeping babies well during the hot summer months.

With the disposal of our women's shoe department, the last obstacle to these new policies has been removed. H. R. Speake is now ready to tell the world what's been on his mind—and he is going to pay for a good slogan fitting his new policies.

To prepare an appropriate slogan, you must first know the new policies. So read carefully.

Clothing, shoes and furnishings for men and boys only, known by the label for dependability, at SMALLER PROFIT, BIGGER VOLUME prices—that is the keynote of H. R. Speake's new policies. H. R. Speake firmly believes that merchandise deeply rooted with value, sold at a smaller margin of profit, will attract enough extra business to show a greater total earning. Prices always have been equitable at H. R. Speake's. Now they're more than equitable. Throughout the store goods now carry a lower mark-up over wholesale cost. The price on some nationally advertised lines has had to be maintained to retain the lines, but even in these instances you know you get big value, plus a wider selection made possible by concentration, and H. R. Speake's cheerful intelligent service that satisfies.

you know our new policies—now put on your thinking cap and get into the fun for the best slogan fitting the new policies of our store.

$2.50 in merchandise

for each of the two next best slogans fitting the new policies of our store.

Contest now open. Closes October 3. You needn't buy a thing; anyone may enter the contest except employees of our store and The Daily, and their immediate families. Submit as many slogans as you wish; the more you submit, the more chances you have of winning a prize. Simply write your slogan on a piece of paper, sign your name and address and bring or mail to our store. Judges will be disinterested parties. Winners will be announced in The Daily and at our store a few days after the close of the contest. Prizes will be awarded regardless of whether any of the slogans submitted are used.

WOMEN'S SECTION FEATURES EXHIBIT OF GERMAN POLICE

KARLSRUHE.—One of the most interesting features of the recent police exhibit was the section devoted to German women's police. Cologne, with the assistance of American and English women, was the first city to organize a women's section of its police force, the organization being patterned after those of New York and London. Leipsic now is planning to follow Cologne's example.

The women police of Cologne, besides acting as a protective force for girls and young women, also exert an influence in child labor.

Telephone lines, which are being strung by the Louisville and Nashville railroad company from Cincinnati to New Orleans, are being placed in the Twin Cities today. A large crew is at work on the job.

A. G. Patterson spoke Sunday afternoon at the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A.

Captain Jack Edwards presided in Decatur police court today in the absence of Mayor Skeggs. Captain Edwards is mayor-pro-tem.

A so-called "vacant" house was raided in the eastern section of the city Sunday by Chief of police Davidson, Officers Bell and Cobb and Constable Mays, and the house was found to be very much "occupied." Several negroes fled at the approach of the officers, two finally being arrested and fined $6.00 on charges of loitering.

The Colonial club soon will move into its new quarters on the third floor of the new building at the corner of Grant street and Second avenue.

The aviation question seems to be "up in the air."

Albany and Decatur appreciate the publicity which the newspapers of this state and of Nashville gave the bridge celebration here last week.

Would it not have been much nicer if Second avenue already had been paved or resurfaced before the bridge celebration?

We're still looking about for a weatherman who can tell the truth and not fill us with expectancy, anticipating cooler weather.

The football season is opened, but student managers will have difficulty stirring enthusiasm in the public's mind with the thermometer still hovering around the century mark.

TIMES CHANGE, BUT WE CAN ALWAYS FIND SOMETHING TO WORRY ABOUT

We hear much nowadays of "the good old days" when the present social problems were never heard of, when such phrases as "petting," "necking" and a few other common expressions had not found their way into the vernacular of the youngsters. Many sincere people believe that if the standards of the youth of today could be eradicated and in their place the standards of a decade or more ago substituted, all would be well with the world. Apparently their memories have leanings toward truancy, and it may surprise them to find, just twelve years ago today, a judge solemnly averring that the telephones are aiding immorality.

A dispatch from Asheville, N. S., published in The Daily twelve years ago, says:

"In his charge to the grand jury today Judge Frank Carter said modern conditions are tending toward the downfall of the government and that the telephone is one of the most provocative causes of immorality and has increased the cost of living at least thirty per cent. He declared that it is helping break down the morality of young womanhood as 'boys and girls say things over the phone that they would not say if they had to speak face to face.'"

Everything today is not as everyone might wish things to be, but worrying over the future is a characteristic of people of the past, as well as the present. Times may change, and do change, but people can always find something to worry about, if they wish.

ALABAMA EDUCATIONAL AUTHORITIES IMPRESS NEEDS OF EDUCATION

Following the stirring gathering here in celebration of the start of work on the Tennessee river bridge, press dispatches, from Montgomery indicate that Governor Brandon will call the legislature together in special session in December.

The primary reason for the meeting is the necessity of obtaining more funds for highway construction and maintenance, more funds for the schools of the state and removal of restrictions in the matter of development of the port of Mobile.

Good roads enthusiasm was high here when the state officials gathered at the celebration. The overwhelming endorsement given the proposed $75,000,000 bond issue at the Princess Theatre meeting was the first direct action taken by large numbers of the people on the question. The overwhelming sentiment in favor of the bond issue program was astonishing, probably, to many of the officials, who had not dreamed that the public was so intensely interested in the question of highway improvement.

It will be necessary to conduct an active campaign to obtain consent of all sections, probably, to vote bonds totaling $75,000,000 for that is a huge sum. It can be done, however. Whatever total the state legislature decides on will be voted by the people. The public has given every evidence of that fact.

It is well, however, to bear in mind the suggestion made here by A. G. Patterson, president of the Alabama public service commission, and next governor of Alabama, that the school needs of the state must not be forgotten in the general rush for development of the Mobile port and continuation of road building.

It is noted in the press that the Alabama Educational Association is getting busy on the question and letters are to be sent out to all legislators, advising them of the necessity for the schools keeping pace with other development in the state.

If the Association officials can get their case before the people, before the legislative session opens, the people will see to it that the schools are not forgotten, but it must be remembered that there will be many claims pressed before the special session, and unless the claims are backed by a well thought out and powerful pre-session campaign, they likely are to be overlooked in the final wind-up.

By all means the educational association should continue its activity.

In this connection it would be well to bear in mind also that the people of Alabama are beginning to wonder why other states can have eight months or nine months school terms in all rural sections, and Alabama cannot, or at least does not.

A campaign in behalf of education at this time certainly should hold out some promise to the rural inhabitants along this line.

Let us work out some plan to guaranteeing to every rural section a school eight or nine months in the year, get this message of hope into the homes of every Alabamian, particularly those most affected by the plan, and interest in all education in this state will quicken to the point, where whatever funds are needed can and will be provided.

NEWSPAPERS URGED TO SUPPORT AMERICA, RIGHT OR WRONG

The plea of President Coolidge to American newspapers to support the American policies in the forthcoming discussions with French spokesmen regarding the payment of France's war debts, probably has aroused more discussion than the President expected, or likely desired.

A very large part of the American press appears to realize that President Coolidge, in view of the fact that the French papers will support their government's program, was well within his rights in urging that the same degree of support be given by the journals of this nation. Many of these same papers, however, as the Anniston Star sets forth, see in the presidential appeal "an implication that should not be overlooked."

The patriotic fervor of the average American newspaper would cause it to have a distinct desire to agree with Stephen Decatur, "Our Country, may she always be right, but our country, right or wrong." And, indeed, when the real rub comes, nearly every American newspaper can be counted upon to lend to the nation its influence, its services and its total resources. Many such instances were recorded during the late world war. Newspapers which were, to say the least, lukewarm during the days preceding the actual outbreak of hostilities, were patriotic to the core after the war got underway. If they would have preferred that this government take some other action than it did, they gave no evidences of holding a minority opinion after the majority had expressed itself. When the rub came, they were found in the front line and they stayed there until peace was declared.

In the present discussion there will be many papers, notwithstanding President Coolidge's appeal, which will desire to withhold approval perhaps of some of the American policies. Expression of such a desire is their privilege and it may be that the effort they make to seek out the truth for themselves will have a wholesome influence on the entire proceedings.

The Star sets forth its conclusions in the following timely discourse and, no doubt, its expression reflects the position of no small part of the American press:

"President Coolidge, through the mythical 'White House spokesman,' has made an appeal to the newspapers of the United States to support his policies in the coming conferences at Washington with reference to the settlement of the French debt, according to dispatches from the capital yesterday; and while the President would seem to be eminently justified in making such a request, there is an implication in his appeal that should not be overlooked.

"Mr. Coolidge probably has in mind the fact that in any discussion involving the interests of France the French press may be counted upon invariably, and without reservation, to champion the French cause. It should be recalled in this connection, however, that most of the French papers are subsidized by the government or some other selfish interest and that the majority of the French press is little more than a convenient agency of propaganda. Patently there is danger in such a situation.

"The subsidized foreign press was given its greatest impetus during the last century when Bismarck, through Friedrich von Holstein, brought about what was known as 'the reptile press,' a press that crawled upon its belly before the royal will. It was a press of the kind that Bismarck and Holstein used in garbling the famous Ems dispatch with reference to the conversations between the German king and the French ambassador, creating the impression in Germany that the king had been insulted and in France that Napoleon had been insulted through his ambassador, that was responsible for the war of 1870. It was a press that depended upon government dole and not upon private initiative, and not only did it fan the flames that led to the war of 1870, but the natural sequence was the world war of recent years.

"The toast of Admiral Decatur, 'Our Country! in her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be right; but our country, right or wrong,' sounds very well when listened to amid the tinkle of the glasses, but it had best be adopted as a motivating principle with some reservation. It were better to know what is right, what policy is sound and enduring, constructive in effect, than to act merely in a light of what is patriotic, than to act merely in a light of what is patriotic.

"The American Star would not be understood as leaning to the belief that the French government is not able to pay its debts; for while the treasury is undoubtedly weak, that is due merely to a disinclination on the part of the French people to pay taxes, as is being done in England, for instance. The French, as a people, are well to do, in the opinion of this paper, and their debt to America should be paid. Yet the Institute of Economics contends that to force payment of the debt now would seriously handicap French finance; so the right thing for the American press to do is to seek the facts and to tell the truth, whether the truth favor France or the United States. As a matter of fact, in this day of international solidarity, what affects one nation will affect all. No nation can live by itself, and thus it becomes that nothing less than the truth will serve a constructive purpose in the settlement of the French debt."

So it is with Irishmen and their fighting. All seasons. That's why they're free, after fighting England for 700 years.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR., buys land on which Garment Workers' Union had planned to build flats for union workers. It is said, not yet confirmed by Mr. Rockefeller, that he will build apartments to rent at reasonable prices. Ten to fifteen dollars per room per month is suggested as the price.

MR. ROCKEFELLER probably will try to do better than that. The Metropolitan Life Insurance company has built excellent apartments renting for $9 a room, and has 24,000 families on the waiting list.

Mr. Stabler, financial expert of the Metropolitan says the enterprise pays well.

Houses are built now at needless cost. Perhaps Mr. Rockefeller will solve the problem of quantity production in houses as Ford has solved it in automobiles, and the Rockefellers in gasoline and other oil products.

WHO will build apartments to house 20,000 families in the outskirts of a great city with quick, cheap express transportation, a theater, market, swimming pools, playgrounds for children and other facilities, his name will be remembered.

AN AMERICAN flyer fighting with the French, reports that Moorish sharpshooters have "shot 20 airplane pilots out of their machines."

That's a recommendation for air fighting. One Moorish machine gun nest might have mowed down a thousand French fighters in half an hour on the ground.

Riffians have been able to shoot only 20 Frenchmen out of their flying machines in months, which shows that the way to save your fighters is to send them through the air. How many thousands of Riffians do you suppose those 20 French airmen bombed, gassed and otherwise destroyed before the sharpshooters got them?

That means a good deal to the late Mr. Leiter, Chicago dry goods pioneer, part of whose millions went to England when his daughter, Mary, was married to Curzon.

Lady Cynthia Moseley, now joining the Labor Party, is Leiter's granddaughter, and Leiter's money will be used to help Socialism and the British Labor Party.

What would old Leiter think of that? How rapidly would it make him rotate in his grave?

VETERAN RECALLS SCENES MARKING END OF CIVIL WAR

SPOKANE—Scenes akin to those that marked the beginning of the armistice that ended the World War were enacted at the surrender of General Robert E. Lee at the close of the Civil War, George N. Stormes of this city, who witnessed Lee's surrender, declared recently.

"My, what a rejoicing there was when news came that the 'Johnnies' had enough and that the war was over," he said. "There was just one big, prolonged bedlam. Everyone was shouting and yelling at the top of his voice, hugging each other, clapping each other on the back, shaking hands, throwing caps, coffee cups, canteens, old muskets, anything at all that was movable up in the air or at each other, just so they could give vent to the world of emotion that had been pent up within them during four long years of hardship and sorrow."

The actual surrender, Mr. Stormes said, did not take place at Appomattox Court House, but at Clover Hill, about three miles away. However, he declared, it did not actually end the hostilities in that locality.

"A short time after Lee had sur-

FIVE PHYSICAL CAUSES FOR GROUCHINESS

It's Not a Good Health Sign for a Person to Give Way to Surliness, So Condition of the Body Needs Examination.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D., United States Senator from New York. Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

"W HAT would you suggest for a person who suffers from a habit of grouchiness, refusing to speak for days at a time?" This is a question from a New England correspondent.

It is said a Yankee always replies to a question by asking another. To make my correspondent feel at home, I'll ask a question: Do you know what we mean by the word "psychosis?"

Any abnormal mental condition may be described by this term. It may be a temporary disturbance of mind, due to some passing irritation of the brain. It may be a more or less permanent mental upset, so marked as to be called insanity.

The trouble my correspondent describes is a psychosis. Its seriousness depends upon the cause and the possibility of removing the cause.

It isn't a good sign for a person to give way to surliness and "grouchiness," refusing speech for days at a time. Unless something can be found, proving that the trouble is purely functional, this attitude of mind may foreshadow permanent loss of mental freedom.

In the great majority of instances, however, moodiness and irritability of this sort are likely to be the effects of poisoning by absorption of the body wastes or of a pus infection somewhere in the body. The delicate brain is liable to disturbance when the firmer muscles and hard bones readily resist the poisonous substances.

For most psychoses, there can be found a physical foundation. In the case in question the first thing to find out is what is wrong with or in the body of the victim.

Suppose we outline a procedure. What about the teeth and gums? Are they healthy or is there decay or pus formation?

Are the nasal sinuses free from pus and are both ears without discharge?

Are the tonsils healthy or are they filled with infected pockets and even with pus?

Are the kidneys and generative organs normal and without pus formation?

Lastly, and perhaps more important than all the rest, is the intestinal tract normal and functioning normally? Chronic constipation and fermentation are conditions which are capable of producing the most serious results upon health and mind.

In all human probability the patient described is the victim of some bodily disturbance within the limits mentioned.

BAPTIST SCHOOLS STUDENTS WORK AND GATHER IN B'HAM STUDY AT SAME TIME

Declared As One Of Most Important Gatherings

(Associated Press)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 22.—What is expected to be the most far-reaching and important conference of its kind ever held in the South will be conducted here beginning next Tuesday and continuing through the following Thursday, when elementary workers of the Baptist Sunday schools of the South are to convene. The conference is to be held under the auspices of the elementary department of the Southern Baptist Sunday school board.

More than 300 men and women, engaged in teaching children of the cradle roll, beginners, primary and junior departments of Baptist Sunday schools in the South are expected to gather here for the conference with experts in this work.

Miss Lillian S. Forbes of Nashville secretary of the elementary department of the Baptist Sunday school board will conduct the conference. She will be assisted by several other experts including Dr. I. J. Vann Ness, of Nashville, corresponding secretary of the Baptist Sunday school board; Miss Meme Brockway of Philadelphia, superintendent of children's work for the American Baptist Publication society; Miss Elizabeth Nuckols, specialist in elementary work and author of a number of books on elementary teaching, and many other well known workers.

Mrs. O. B. Sparks, chairman of publicity in Birmingham, is busy with plans for the coming conference and is making earnest efforts to have the meeting well attended by delegates from this section of the state.

HONOLULU'S POPULATION INCREASES

HONOLULU.—Annual preliminary population estimates compiled by S. W. Tay, sanitary engineer for the board of health reveal that the population of Honolulu has probably reached 100,000. THOUGHTS OF THE WEEK

By J. A. West

BUILDING THE BRIDGE

With the actual beginning of work constructing the bridge across the Tennessee, began the greatest forward development it has been the privilege of news gatherers to announce for a long time.

It means far more than the mere connecting link between the rich and populous counties. It means that it is a gigantic structure to last for all time, situated on the Bee Line highway, the direct route from the north to the south, and places every city, town and hamlet, as well as states closer together. For with modern means of transportation, and an available non stop route over which these fast flooted vehicles may pass, the travel will be doubled.

There is another phase to the situation that is worth while, the advertising feature accruing to the cities that have labored so faithfully, often in the dust of defeat, but who kept everlastingly at it, until every opposition was mastered, and the triumph was achieved.

To the valiant souls who fostered the plan and who "built wiser than they perhaps knew," are due a debt of gratitude for the staying qualities exhibited by them in every phase of the campaign. Long after these have passed along and quit the walks of men, this great structure will stand as a memorial, and to the moving spirits who gave of their time and talent in making it a possibility, there should be a granite slab placed to each approach across it, upon which the names of such might be chiseled, there to remain as a memorial, and preserved to future posterity.

There are always in every community those who when public enterprises are being planned, who have the initiative to move forward, and who are possessed of that indomitable spirit, of never to quit. To these is due the credit for this great enterprise primarily, and those others whom they were able to enlist under their banner.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

With us will soon be, according to all past records the equino disturbances whipped out of the gulf by old Neptune, and sent across the land in the form of wind and rain. These disturbances are due soon to arrive. There are those who maintain that a September gale is due to arrive, even if it is delayed and doesn't put in its appearance until January. Whether this is true or not, it is quite certain that we will have in this month those disturbances which always arrive true to form.

The usual predictions are being made about an early winter, and there are those whom assert that it is to be a severe one.

Here are some of the reasons assigned for a bleak cold winter. The ants have been more industrious than usual, thus laying up a larger store for winter. The shucks on the corn is heavier than usual, bearing out the idea that nature has provided to care for it, perhaps not counting on it being harvested and placed in storehouses. The bark on the north side of the trees is thicker and rougher than usual, providing a thicker coat to protect the tender stratas of growth beneath it. Wild ducks have already been seen to be migrating south, a positive sign, so said, that they have sensed the bleak cold of the coming winter, and came a little earlier in order to get their house in order before the arrival of ice.

Whether any of these signs are significant or not, there are those who dote on them, and tell the signs of the times with positiveness.

MANY HOUSEWIVES SEEK TO EMULATE U. S. BUDGET

WASHINGTON.—The Federal government, by getting on a budget basis has inspired countless housewives throughout the country to emulate it.

The bureau of the budget here is receiving many requests from the holders of family pursestrings and even from members of congress for hints on saving money by making a budget and recording household expenses.

The office of General H. M. Lord, director of the bureau, however, is forced to reply that the government has prepared no schedule of proposed expenses for the household. Although dealing with an outlay of billions of dollars, the Budget Bureau has not yet shaped a course for expending salaries of $1,000 a year and up, and is not now considering it. The nearest approach has been distribution by the bureau of a publication put out by a cash register concern, outlining a proposed budget for use by individuals and families.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY CENTRAL M. E. CHURCH

The regular Monday afternoon meeting of the Missionary Society of the Central M. E. Church was held in the church auditorium. The meeting was opened with a song, followed by prayer, with the general president, Mrs. F. L. Carswell in the chair. The devotional was led by Mrs. L. C. Mayes. The very interesting way in which she analyzed the home life of Mary and Martha, showed careful preparation. The meeting then adjourned to meet each Circle Leader in various sections of the church to discuss business of importance.

After 20 minutes the president rapped for order. She was joined by everyone. After a prayer, the approaching Chautauqua was discussed, every thing is encouraging; the advance sale of tickets most satisfactory. More tickets were given the willing workers, who were off to do "a marathon," immediately in the disposal of tickets as early as possible.

FREE STATE BEING AMERICANIZED SPEEDILY, SAYS AN IRISH NEWSPAPER

DUBLIN—Dropping of the Gaelic name Bri Cuanlan by Bray, County Wicklow, has impelled the Irish Times to publish an attack on what it characterizes the tyranny of Irish in the schools.

In spite of all the government's elaborate machinery for the Gaelicization of Ireland, the newspaper says, the Free State is being "Americanized" today with deadly swiftness and thoroughness. No compulsory attendance act is needed by the picture houses.

"Day after day, night after night," the article adds, "our Irish boys and girls are learning that America is a great land of luxury, wealth and adventure. How can compulsory Irish keep them at home in the face of this unvarnished and subtle inducement? They are being enucleated hourly in American methods of speech and business and compulsory Irish merely will be a handicap to their progress in the new world."

PAINS ALL OVER

Lady Says She Took Cardui and Never Saw Such Improvement—Was So Weak Couldn't Stand.

Weatherby, Miss.—Mrs. James M. Hall, of this place, writes that she was "getting weaker all the time" when Cardui, the woman's tonic, was first brought to her attention. After she had taken Cardui a while, she writes that she "never did see such an improvement."

"I suffered all the time and had pains all over," says Mrs. Hall. "I was so weak I could not stand. My skin was cold and flabby. I did not have any color. I had always been a very active woman—used to outdoor exercise, walking and going where I pleased, and to get down, not able to get myself a drink, was indeed a hardship."

"Nothing seemed to help me, till I began on Cardui. The first bottle seemed to strengthen me, and I sent for five more. By the time I had taken these, I was on my feet, going around, doing my work, gained in health and strength, and I am well and strong. Can work my garden. I haven't had any more sickness."

Weather Record Broken at Capital

(Associated Press)
MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 22—Another hot day is in prospect for Montgomery this morning, the weather bureau predicting a temperature of around 100 degrees.

Yesterday was the 95th day of the year showing a temperature of 90 degrees or more. This is three days more than the record set 52 years ago, when the thermometer registered 90 or more for 92 days.

No Negroes Now In The Etowah Jail

(Associated Press)
GADSDEN, Ala., Sept. 22—For the first time since Etowah county was organized in 1868, there is not a single negro prisoner in the county jail. The Etowah county white men and three outside prisoners compose the entire jail population, the smallest in many years.

County officials said this was an unusual record, when the fact is considered that Etowah is one of the most thickly populated counties of the south.

AGED INDIAN QUILTS HOSPITAL TO WALK 80 MILES IN TWO DAYS

BANFF, Alta.—Eighty year old, Peter Wisely, chief of the Nordegg branch of the Stoney Indians, dressed and departed from the Sarcee hospital, where he was confined for eye treatment, and walked to Morley, 80 miles, in two days.

Fearing that the doctors in charge would not permit him to leave in order to bring his tribe through the mountains for the Indian celebration, Banff recently, he sneaked across the prairie through the extreme heat, sleeping in the open and surviving on berries and water.

He has only one eye left and that does not serve him very well, but his Indian instinct carried him across country to his goal.

SHINGLE ROOF LASTS 37 YEARS

EATONVILLE, Wash.—Thirty-seven years was the life of a shingle roof that T. C. Van Eaton, a pioneer after whom this city was named, renewed this summer. The structure houses a department store, whose proprietor declared that not a cent's worth of goods had been damaged by leakage. The shingles were split out of red cedar cut nearby.

Advice to Girls.

By Annie Laurie
DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am a girl of eighteen and am in love with a young man who lives across the street from my house. I see him quite often and talk to him. It seems the more I talk to him the more I love him. He seems to like me. How can I find out if he cares for me?

WORRIED: There is really nothing you can do to ascertain the extent of this young man's affection for you, my dear. At any rate, don't worry about it. Be cordial and friendly toward him, chat gayly about the things which interest you and don't give the young man an opportunity to think you are fond of him. If he does value your friendship he will find some way of telling you—and until then you must not brood the subject.

INVENTOR GIVES CLAM CREDIT FOR IMPORTANT DISCOVERY

TACOMA, Wash.—The lowly clam may be given credit for an invention of great importance to the smelting industry. B. H. Bennetts, a local chemist and assayer, observed that all the clam shells on the beach near the Tacoma smelter were green, as if discolored by copper. He studied the mystery and finally discovered that ram limestone would precipitate the copper in copper sulphate.

Under general smelting processes the raw copper is reduced to liquid copper sulphate. Then iron is added and copper is precipitated and the result is then in shape for final fluxing, limestone being added for the flux.

Thanks to the clam, Bennetts learned that iron could be eliminated entirely. The ground limestone is added to the copper sulphate and the precipitate comes forth as copper carbonate and calcium sulphate and is in the form to be finally smelted without the addition of any more lime. The process is said to result in a great saving by eliminating iron. It is estimated that the saving will total a cent a pound.

The discovery was made by Bennetts more than two years ago, but only recently he received his patent from the government. The patent was so broad that the government hesitated to grant it. It is close to a basic patent in scope.

Bennetts, who already has invented various devices and methods used in smelting, says that if his new plan works out as expected he will adopt the clam shell as his official coat-of-arms.

INDUSTRY INCREASE EXPECTED IN STATE

L. & N. Rumor Is The Cause For Much Speculation

(Associated Press)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 22—An interesting activity in industrial circles for the latter part of the present year and the first part of next year is expected here if rumors to the effect that the Louisville and Nashville railroad has ordered 70,000 tons of steel rail from the T. C. I. company prove accurate. This rumor, which has gained much attention in industrial circles, has it that the L. & N. has already placed an order for the 70,000 tons of rails for delivery during late fall this year and the early part of next. The rumored order is considered to involve $3,000,000. Especial activity is predicted for the Ensley-Fairfield district as the rails will be rolled at the Ensley plant of the company, the rumor says. Other operations are expected to speed up in connection with the rumored placing of this order that will create activity for the plants of the district for the next several months.

Reports also current include the probable placing of an order for 500 box cars, 500 gondolas and 250 flat cars by the L. & N. for 1925 delivery. It is expected that a part of this business will also be given to the T. C. I. in view of the past transactions between the two concerns.

All plants of the Ensley-Fairfield district will be working at capacity for some months to come, if general opinion proves correct.

The Stirring Life Story of The Great Commoner

Begins Sunday, September 27th, and Continues Until Completed

In THE BIRMINGHAM AGE-HERALD

The Memoirs of William Jennings Bryan

The autobiography on which Mr. Bryan was working at the time of his death July 26th, 1925, at Dayton, Tennessee, edited and corrected by Mrs. Bryan, has been purchased by Frederick I. Thompson, publisher, for exclusive publication in Alabama by The Birmingham Age-Herald and associated newspapers, the Mobile Register and Montgomery Journal, and will appear in The Age-Herald in weekly installments commencing Sunday, Sept. 27th.

It reveals for the first time, and in the great Commoner's own words, the intimate details of the extraordinary chain of events which placed Mr. Bryan at the head of the democratic party in 1896; gives interesting sidelights upon his career from that time, with a gripping narrative of world politics from the time the young Nebraskan first challenged the attention of the country; talks intimately of his religious convictions and activities, and is replete with pointed and illuminating anecdotes in his inimitable style.

These Memoirs Vividly Portray the Extraordinary Historical Drama Mr. Bryan Lived and Now Unfolds!

At Dayton, Tenn., Bryan wrought the most dramatic climax of his eventful life. His supreme effort in the Scopes trial undoubtedly hastened the ringing down of the curtain upon his career. That he believed he stood at an Armageddon there, fighting for the Bible of his God, his account of those eventful days leaves no doubt. He threw the fire and fervor of his soul into that strange contest, and, on a Sabbath afternoon, a few days later, the broken but happy warrior lay down peacefully to his last sleep. The final chapter of his life, as related in his memoirs, makes reading of absorbing quality.

The religious side of Bryan's nature was stronger than the political, and many commentators have declared that he will be remembered longer as a great evangelist than as a great publicist. Certainly it has been given to no other man to attain such height or wield such influence in two great fields of public endeavor.

CHIEF EXECUTIVES MEET NEXT MONTH
Called Together To Consider Relation Governments
(Associated Press)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 22.—What the governor of South Carolina said to the governor of North Carolina may be repeated here next month when the chief executives from approximately 14 states will meet as guests of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce for a conference.

Governor H. L. Whitfield, of Mississippi, is calling the conference and O. L. Bunn, general manager of the local chamber of commerce, has received a letter from him accepting the invitation to hold the conference here.

The conference is being called to consider reclamation projects in the Southern States and the relation of the government to co-operative work.

In the event that the conference is intended by all of the chief executive of surrounding states, the gathering will be one of the most distinguished ever held in the Southland. Plans are already being made to entertain the visiting governors and an effort to give them royal entertainment will be made by Mr. Bunn.

Governor Whitfield in accepting the chamber's invitation to hold the conference here, said that he felt sure that Birmingham is an ideal place to hold the meeting.

Date for the meeting has been set for October 28 and 29, unless this time proves inconvenient for the majority of the executives. Another date will be set in case the governors find it impossible to be here on the 28th and 29th.

Miss du Pont, who plays an important role in "Sinners in Silk," the Metro-Goldwyn picture which comes to the Princess theater today became a screen player quite by accident. She was summoned one day by a director who required the advice of a fashionable designer of women's clothes. Struck by her beauty, he gave her a small part in the picture. Rex Ingram then engaged her for "The Day She Said." Shortly after she played the leading feminine role in "Foolish Wives" and has been prominently cast in pictures ever since. "Sinners in Silk" is a Hobart Henley production presented by Louis B. Mayer.

Thousands of Women Being Released Daily
The Untiring Work of the Nation's Foremost Authorities, Brings Freedom From Hereditary Bondage For Women.

The age-old impression of the natural inferiority of women to the prowess of man has been too readily and almost wholly indulged in by women themselves. But the real reason for this has been that woman was the slave of her own imperfections until now because the wonderful St. Joseph's G. F. P. was not introduced generally until recently.

St. Joseph's G. F. P. is making female weakness, painful and irritating periods, headaches, depression, melancholy and the attendant imaginations of inferiority a shadow of the past. It enables the excretory organs to relieve the system of the poisons which are the cause of the improper functioning of the bladder, kidneys, intestines and other organs. It cleans and strengthens them so they can assimilate the iron and vitamins from your food into your blood so nourishment is carried through the veins to every nerve, muscle and vital organ. That's what gives women vitality and energy, and their beauty reflects sound, healthy, strong and active organs.

St. Joseph's G. F. P. will help nature fulfill the obligations which she is due you. Thousands of grateful girls and women are praising it as only the tender hearts of our mothers, daughters and sisters can convey. ### INDIANA REPUBLICANS SEEK WIDER SPHERE OF CONTROL

INDIANAPOLIS—Indiana, which has a reputation as the birthplace of much of the country's political strategy, has contributed what its republican leaders consider a new advance in politics. The republican state committee has announced that hence forth the party will aim definitely and actively at control of municipal government, as well as at control of the larger political units of the state.

With municipal elections slated for November 3 in several hundred Indiana towns and cities, the republican party has offered the services of speakers or organizers to local organizations desiring them.

While affirming its unwillingness to interfere in local elections when they hinge entirely on local issues, or to attempt to conduct municipal campaigns on the basis of political issues which affect state or national campaigns, the republican state committee sets forth several reasons why control of municipal governments is properly a goal of organized political parties.

The national administration's advocacy of economy in government, also a plank in the platform of the republican state administration in Indiana, may with propriety be carried clear to the smallest unit of government, the committee believes; and because emphasis on tax reduction can bear greater fruit in the municipality which consumes so preponderant a share of the tax total, the party sees virtue in carrying the same principles into effect in local governments.

SPORTS

Grid Teams Working Hard With Few Vets For Opening Turmoil As Season Nears

Gridiron candidates are feeling the heat of a broiling September sun regularly now with the high schools of both cities in session and the coaches laboring to prepare their charges for the opening frays of the year.

Prospects are considerably better than last year at Albany High, though a coach has not yet been appointed and the mapping out of a schedule is always difficult. O. S. Hagerman is working with the golden jerseyed lads every afternoon and his squad represents the largest array of beef and brawn the school has known since the departure of the famed Pepper-Tuck-Handy-Sewell combination. The Albany high machine will center around Spencer, Peterson and Papenburg of last years campaigns with a goodly amount of material coming up from the scrub lines of last season.

Coach Grimes at Decatur high faces the same difficulty he was forced to cope with last year. He will have an extremely light team and an inexperienced team. Decatur high has not yet worked out the full schedule for the year and no announcement has been made for the opening date. Considerable hope is entertained in Y. M. C. A. circles for a better team than took the field last year. Coach Ashwander took his men through a hard workout Monday afternoon after a layoff from Friday and followed up with black board practice Monday evening. Intensive work is necessary with the first game looming ahead within a few days.

Ashwander still has a problem to workout in his backfield choice. He is yet minus the fourth member of his backfield quartet. Braswell and McCree of last years outfit are showing up in good form in their old positions at half and full, while Johnson is a new comer who is showing the advantages of his training under Coach Webb last year at Albany high. The problems in the line are still somewhat tangled with the possibility that Byars, Speer, Bowen and Shelton will face the new year with the advantage of having played together through last seasons battles. Of the new men, Russell, Mayes, Roberts and Dunaway of last years scrubs are making rapid strides to get into a regular berth. Howell is being taught the trick of passing back and may be used at center. Sims will be used at tackle or guard. Brown and Hurst are expected to report for the first time this afternoon.

S. E. Arvidson, manager of the squad is working hard to fill out his entire schedule but is still at a loss for an opponent for the first game on the second or third of October. He is taught part singing. Previously the Hawaiians had sung and played only melodies. Because there was nothing else to do the young people developed this form of entertaining themselves and their neighbors to a high degree.

NOISE JAZZ REPLACES OLD NATIVE MELODIES OF HAWAIIAN ISLANDS

HONOLULU, Sept. 22—Hawaiian troubadours, the wandering musicians who once filled the island nights with the melodies of the olden days with voices and stringed instruments, have traded their ukeleles and banjos for saxophones and are making "the night hideous with their wails."

This is the statement of Charles E. King, former territorial senator and composer of many Hawaiian songs, who is taking an active part in a movement to revive the ancient custom of serenading by night with ukeleles and other stringed instruments. "People want to hear the old songs," Senator King said.

"They want to dance, too, and can dance to anything that has rhythm. But there is nothing in the world which makes lovelier dance music than the song of the island, which provide a wide variety of time and rhythm so that any sort of modern dance music can be achieved. The tendency now, simply because people do not discourage it, is to play noise. The dance orchestras today, use largely the saxophone, do not produce melody. Something the men who play the saxophones do not know either their instruments or music. But they are natural musicians and so pick out their own way of playing, with the result that an orchestra sometimes is led by a group of two or three saxophones all playing the same air and producing the effect of all noise and no music.

"The great harmony and melody in Hawaiian songs came largely through the efforts of Theodore Richards who

"I Got Real Mad when I Lost My Setting Hen," writes Mrs. Hanna, N. J.

"When I went into our barn and found my best setting hen I got real mad. One package of Rat-Snap killed six big rats. Poultry raisers should use Rat-Snap. Comes in cakes, no mixing. No smell from dead rats. Three sizes. Price, 35c, 65c, $1.25. Sold and guaranteed by CADDELL DRUG CO.

Lower — and Better

Graham Brothers second price reduction in four months, announced September 9th, is simply a reflection of the public's confidence in Graham Brothers Trucks.

The new 1-ton Truck chassis price, f.o.b. Detroit, is—

$995

Without greatly increased production this latest exceptional cut would have been impossible—except for a sacrifice of the quality that has brought Graham Brothers so quickly to first position among the world's exclusive manufacturers of motor trucks.

The fact is that Graham Brothers Trucks are better than they ever were—and any owner will tell you they have always been remarkably good.
